We are now down to our last two months of school but there is still much work to be done. Our grade 6 students came back from their experience at Camp Summit, with many stories about their outdoor learning, while other students have been exploring other more near-by places, such as the Little Campbell Hatchery. Many students worked hard to prepare speeches for either the English speech contest or the French concours, and the wide range of topics was a testament to the varied interests of our students. Other students made informative displays for the Heritage Fair, and those with the top scores will be heading to compete at the district fair. LEARNING SPACES

We were lucky enough to have Dr. Lennie Scott-Weber, a leading specialist in learning spaces, tour our school to give us suggestions on what we could do both inside and outside of our school to create learning spaces that meet the many varied needs of our students and are better suited to our redesigned curriculum. We will begin the process of asking students what they think in the near future.
